CLEVELAND PLAIN DEALER 4/24/50

Bulletin From Borderland

The mystery of the flying saucers has been cleared up, we are pleased to report. An outfit known as Borderland Sciences Research Associates, of San Diego, Cal., gives us the real dope in a memorandum to "our fellow citizens and to all governmental authorities."

All of the disk-shaped craft come from "the etheric regions of Venus, and their form is modeled after that of the visible planet. All of the ether craft are of a jelly-like consistency until they enter the region of some celestial body, when they are 're-vibrated' into another density."

We learn that these craft, or similar ones, have "appeared at intervals throughout recorded history, and as a rule just prior to great catastrophies of nature, or to the turning point and decline of empires and civilizations. The purpose in such cases is to collect data for their own historical archives and for scientific study."

We also learn that the visitors are pretty much annoyed by the release of atomic energy which has "seriously affected the regions inhabited by these visitors;" that they intend to land as soon as they feel they will encounter a friendly reception, and that we should attempt to convey our kindly wishes by signaling with colored lights.

But we had better watch our step, because if we keep on shooting off atom bombs, the visitors will "intervene to prevent a continuation of this practice."

Wonderful! How can we lose?
